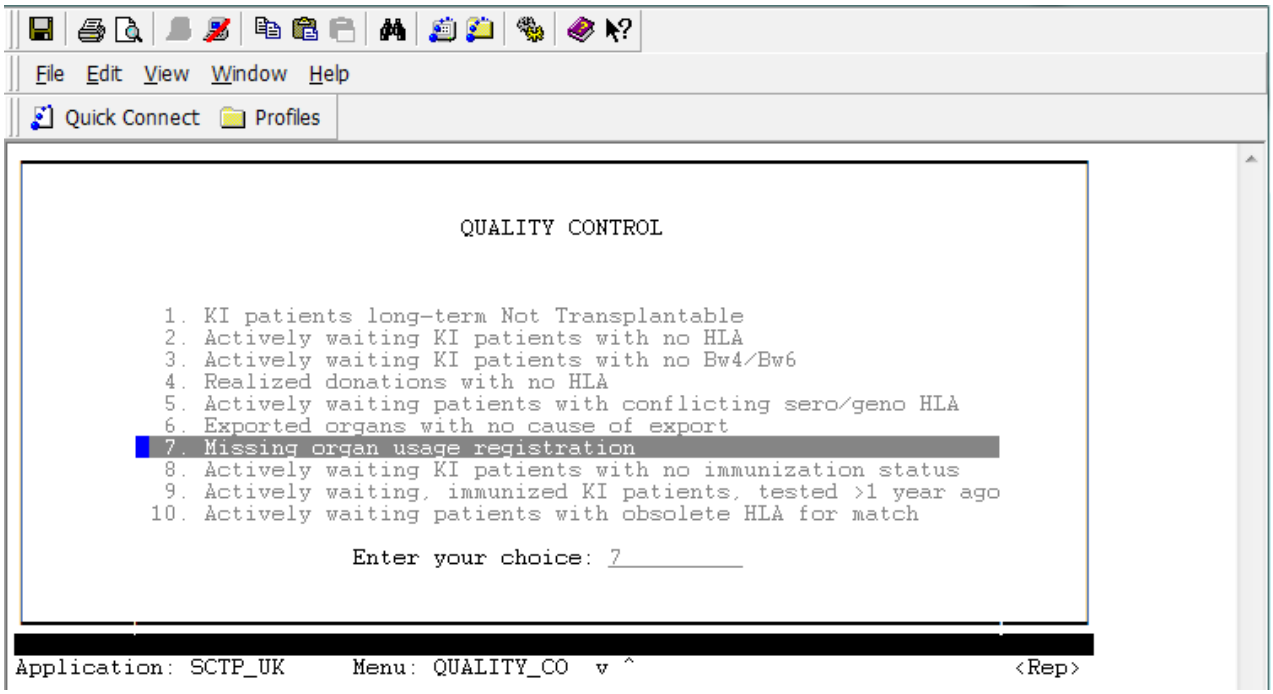
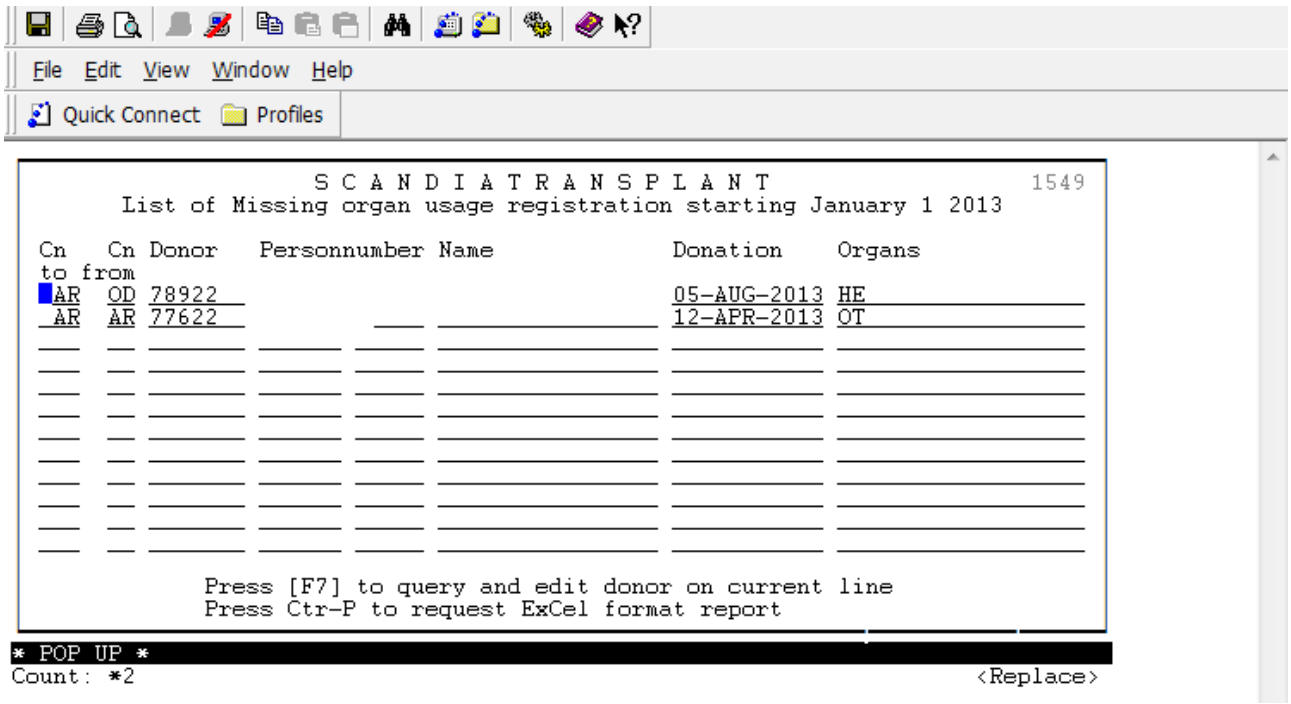
Quality Control (QC)

Missing organ usage registration

August 21, 2013 a new quality control was introduced. This new quality check is meant to disclose harvested organs where usage has not been registered in the Scandiatransplant database.
Traceability is one of the main topics in EU directive 2010/25/EU http://eur-lex.europa.eu/LexUriServ/LexUriServ.do?uri=OJ:L:2010:207:0014:0029:EN:PDF, why it must be stated what has happened to each single harvested organ.
This QC is a tool made for the users, which makes it easy accessible and clear where information about organ usage is lacking.

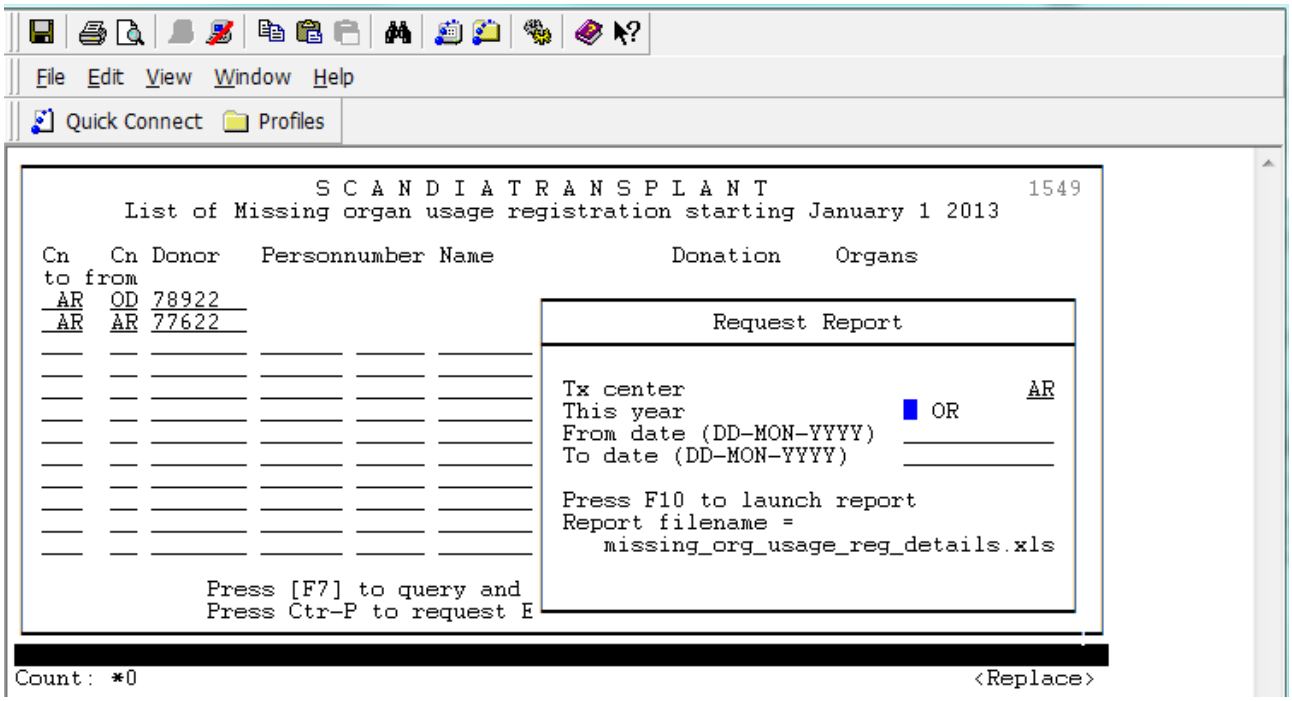
How to find the new quality control:
Main menu → Quality control → Missing organ usage registration





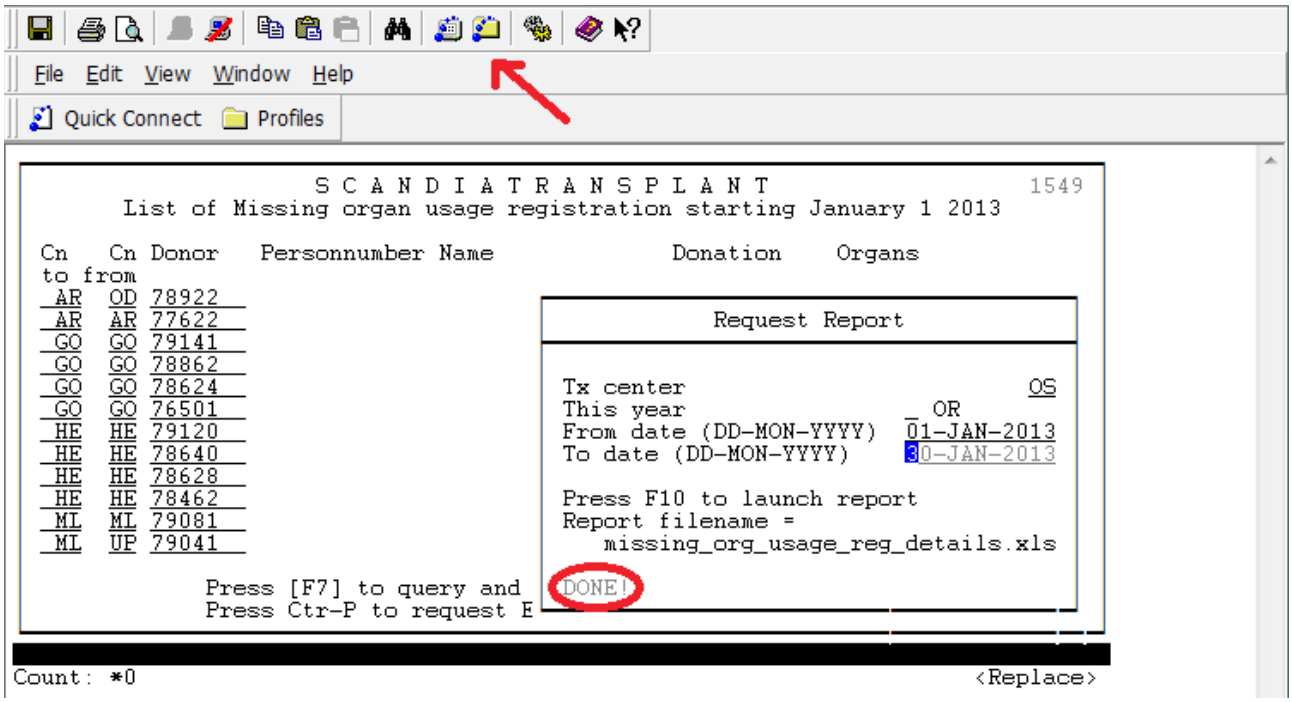
When you enter the menu you will see display of all harvested organs were usage have not been stated, including the organs that have been exported to your center from other Scandiatransplant centers.
The on-line display limits the listing of donors registered with donation date from January 1st 2013.

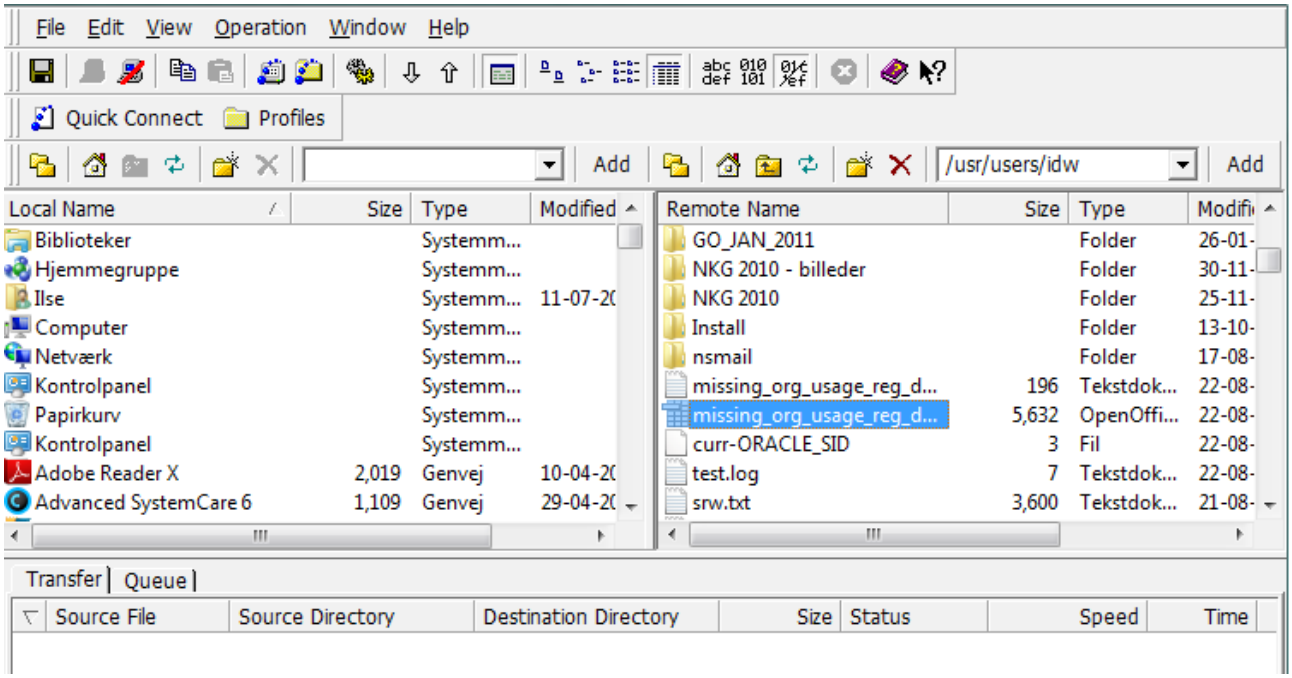
If you wish to have data extracted in an excel file on the missing registration from your own center you start by pressing crtl-P.



You will then be able to extract data from the current year or for a given time period. The request report is not limited to extract data only from 2013 as the on-line display is.

Press F10 and when the extraction is done find the file in ‘New file transfer window’ (yellow folder with blue dots).





The name of the detailed report download file is missing_org_usage_reg_details.xls x
